BOLD CHARGES AGAINST KING AND LIBERALS

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Launches Bitter Campaign at Renfrew, Ont.

Canadian Press

July 15.—"Knowing that he could not survive the customs scandal MacKenzie King thought he could distract the people's attention, however, by being a representative," declared Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of defence. Wednesday, at a meeting of the Conservative organization of Renfrew, Ont., which nominated Dr. M. J. Malone, member of the last parliament from the riding.

The minister of defence described the scandals of the customs inquiry as the most gigantic political snafus since the time of the King government he said had been confined in parliament, for his management of the customs department and for the shielding of the customs commissioners, loggers, smugglers and thugs.

"The King government is doing nothing but making things worse," he stated. "You wonder why MacKenzie King is not indicted instead of being indicted? The criminals that have been prosecuted and the ones that have not been prosecuted are the blackest things in the history of the country."

Mr. Guthrie said that on Tuesday while acting minister of justice he had a conference with Mr. King in the office of the Minister of Finance from pensioners of Dr. John Ross. "I told him that you were starting ballot boxes in the Peace River election. He argued that it was all right because he had been re-elected the election last fall, and that he was not responsible as far as his cases at Athabasca and Peace River."

Dead Man Voted

MacKenzie King's election in Thompson, Alta., was the first time the speaker who declared that the former premier had received the full support of the electorate in practically every one of them was proved wrong. The men who were dead and away from the district.

"We won't operate this election," he exclaimed. "We will see that the best men are in charge of the election."

Mr. Guthrie described the events in Thompson as follows: "When Mr. King's resignation after being re-nominated as leader of the government general, the hon. and members of the Gratt party is that His Excellency, in a very dignified and statesmanlike manner by refusing Mr. King his request to be appointed to the cabinet, and instead, MacKenzie King was invited to dissolve parliament in the face of defeat in the election of June 10."

Definite General

"We might as well resign the general refuse to allow dissolution," he said. "It was on July 10, October 29 that was called and dissolved," explained Mr. Guthrie. "The government had agreed to any constitutional changes that would have."

"A definite general election and protection that will protect any will be held in the fall of 1927," he said.

Mr. Guthrie declared that every trust that has been formed in the country by the people of Canada millions of dollars and that example had been set by the American banks and eggs have been given practically free entry into Canada. The cost of the farmers of Canada is the cost of the Government. In Manitoba as a candidate for the Liberal party, Hon. Thomas A. Low, former member of the legislature, who was defeated by 1,400 votes in the general election of 1925.

A Word to the Universe.

Motivators have been warned, not with complete success, that a "stop" sign on the city pavement means precisely, invariably and positively, what it says.

Those plain though impudent messages were not painted on the right way of things, except, perhaps, for ornaments. They were put there to be obeyed, however, and the motivators department has pledged itself "to the hilt" to see that they are obeyed, regardless of the congestion of business at the city police court and the depletion of the cash resources of the unbedeviled driver.

The Greater Loss.

Mourning over the unfinished legislation that was lost when the Mackenzie King Government was wiped from the air is an appropriate exercise for the Progressive ex-M.P.'s whose turncoat associates did the same.

But the legislation lost through the failure of Mr. Meighen to finish the work of the session is a less serious matter to the West than the loss that will be sustained if he is able to meet the next Parliament with a majority strong enough to inflict upon the tariff policy which he has planned and for which his backers are clamoring.

Regrets for the lost work of the last session will only help the future in so far as they stand as warning to Western voters that the only way to escape a far worse loss is to beat Meighen at the polls.

Ch. Dry Thro' Tears!

What does it profit the country that Progressive members of the late lamented Parliament, in a half-construed legislation, went by the board when the Mackenzie King Government was shipwrecked?

The five Progressive renegades who did the work were the parties whom the country must thank because the bill to relieve solider-settlers' land, the amendments to the Grain Act, the appropriation for the Hudson's Bay railway, and other items of unfinished business, sans triumph when Parliament was dissolved.

Progressive voters who stood by their constituents in that time of crisis would have been better employed kicking these deserters out of their party than they were inviting the traitorous quintette to shed crocodile tears over the consequences of its own treason to party, principle and public.

Apportioning Credit and Blame.

Mr. Lucas, the bolting ex-M.P. for Carbonear, has come up with a new theory. Progressives at first agreed to support a Meighen Government, but went back on the deal.

To the bolters belongs credit for the bad consistency of trying to stabilize, consolidate and perpetuate the high tariff Government they had imposed upon the country.

To the non-bolters belongs credit for the hindsight to see where the bolters had landed them, and for courage enough to refuse to stay put.

Sober second thought evidently impressed Mr. Forke and his associates with the fact that the consequences of entrenching a high-tariff Government would be more disastrous to the public than the consequences of going back to the bargain they might better have never made.

Second thoughts did not avail to stay the hands of Messrs. Lucas et al. in trying to permanently fasten upon their constituents the consequences of the high-tariff Government created through their duplicitous efforts.

As between two unlovely alternatives, "twice better" have planned to bolt and then balked at the hurdle than to have bolted and kept on bolting.

The New Cabinet.

There were few surprises in the line-up of the Meighen Government, except the fact that Sir Henry Drayton is without a portfolio. As there are still five to be allotted, the ex-Minister of Finance will probably be placed later.

In the meantime, nothing that was to be looked for. Nobody will drift from its composition, what the tariff policy of the Government is to be, if it lasts long enough to put one into effect.

Reverse the policy of tax cutting and tariff reduction embodied in the Hobbie budget, and the results will be taken to fairly indicate the fiscal program the Ministers will put into force if they get a chance.

The cabinet is being made representative so far as the provinces are concerned. It also includes Mr. Paton, whose presence is not less significant.

The line-up shows that Mr. Meighen has succeeded in consolidating the Conservative party, that he has squared circles in Montreal, and has the solid backing of the highly protestant interests for the enforcement of the kind of tariff they demand.

Western voters will be well advised to keep clear of the delusion that it is a cabinet of weaklings. Several of the Ministers have men who will not help their prestige. But they are in the main experienced politicians, shrewd and distinctive protectionists, and they are headed together to make that cardinal principle in the Conservative cause effective.

It is a cabinet that will stand a lot of heating. The more reason why Western voters should concentrate their attention and their support on the practical dollars-and-cents issue that is involved.

If they fritter away their strength trying to elect two low-tariff candidates against one Conservative candidate, they need not be surprised if the Hobbie budget fails—and the minority agreement was lost, and with similarly disastrous results to the West.

THE PERFECT GOLFER

He was indeed a sportsman true,

His fair and square friendship were,

His ball was on the green in two

And down in four.

Gave him a par.

King and Queen of Spain Are Entertained at Dinner by British Sovereigns

Associated Press

LONDON, July 14.—The British sovereigns brought out the famous garter boys and girls, the rarest china and the most beautiful flowers, not to mention the choicest food, to entertain King Alfonso and Queen Victoria on Wednesday evening at which King Alfonso opened the English Parliament.

The Spanish royal pair, who had just arrived from their tour of the Orient, dressed themselves to the full, scheme, but with pink and mauve, and the English court produced decorations which excited the admiration of the heads of the diplomatic corps. When heads, the British and Spanish monarchs and their consorts, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Princess Beatrice, the Spanish ambassador and his wife, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Earl and Countess of Derby, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, and the Foreign Minister, Lord Balfour, were present.

A pageant of the Orient was revived when the pipes of the Scotch guards marched around the state table at intervals playing lively tunes.

Beautiful Cashmere Shawl Is Treasured by Vancouver Woman

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 13.—A beautiful cashmere shawl, which once belonged to Queen Victoria, is a treasure of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of this city. Her husband was a member of the force. The shawl to whom the shawl was given, and of which it was once made by Princess Louise.

The Queen often complimented the shawl when she was in Canada, and when she was out walking, Mrs. Dunlop, for a glass of whey and an oat cake, and when she was in town, she would go to visit the young Princess, who was a member of the force.

Princess Louise, however, among her well-known subjects, her pride was present and many a time she would say, "I am bound, when admiring to the shawl, that it is mine."

Finally Jean Duncan was sent for to identify the shawl, and when she was asked, "Is this the Queen's?" she said, "Yes, I am sure it is." The Queen, delighted sitting on the veranda of the Mounties' castle and after persuading her to go to the shawl, said, "Keep it, but do not let me see it again." But Her Majesty requested her to stay the night and in the morning, when the Queen left, the Queen said to her, "As the shawl is yours, you may keep it." She has never returned to the shawl home and never mind returning it. Keep it in memory of me."

How a Wife Can Keep Step With an Up-and-Coming Husband — Shall She Marry Her Tightwad Fiance? — Advice to All Flappers Who May Have "Steadies" band I married when we should have been in school, but he has studied at home since we have been married. He is a good man, but he is poor. While I stayed right where I left off. We will soon have to meet the kind of people who will marry him, and I am afraid that will hold him down. So I have thought of taking him to a better place, but I don't know if that would be right for me? Please tell me what to do. — B. R.

Answer. For Heaven's sake shan't the reader be a great help to you? You are in a bind in order to help him. Do you think it would be any help to him to break up his present relationship? If so, then why not leave him? Why? It would take him away from you, and you would have more than any other thing to distract his thoughts from her work and career.

Do you think it does a man any good in his business and increase his chances of getting a good job? On the contrary, it hurts his reputation almost beyond repair. You have been concerned about him, and on the domestic side, too. That is the man who gets along badly with his wife and whose mind is always upset by the quarrels at the home.

You are right in not wanting to give up your husband in not marrying with him. A woman who has an up-and-coming husband has to keep step with him or else lose him. But you are right in not wanting to give up your career and my earnest advice to you is to put your pride in your pocket and go back to school.

I don't mean that literally, unless it is possible for you to take some correspondence course in your field of interest and get a good job, and give you lessons every day in literature and history and also teach you the social amenities that you need for an easier society which doors are open to you.

And you can read, read, read, not foolish, silly books and magazines merely to pass the time, but things that are worth while and that will educate you.

You are right that your husband will be ashamed of you if you are not a good housekeeper, but don't let that stop you from knowing which road to take. The remedy for it is not to run away, but to have the grit and courage to overcome your handicaps.

If you know not how to dress well try to pick your own clothes. A woman who has an up-and-coming husband has to keep step with him or else lose him. If you had no social training in your youth, get some society woman to help you. If you are not good at housework, down what to say to people when you meet and how to eat. If you lack experience get a good teacher to help you, and then practice until you direct your studies.

You can make yourself over if you will. It is just a matter of courage.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to be married to a young man, who makes a good living. He is a son of a father of a father. Not a boy of much of a family. A car or any other little things that women love. Occasionally he takes me to the movies or treats me to ice cream cones in a restaurant. He is a good boy, and I am very fond of him. I am not able to do the things. Would you advise me to marry him? PAULINE.

Answer. Certainly would not. This chap isn't a tightwad, he certainly has got all the ear-marks of one, and I wouldn't take a chance with him. The average man loves-to-husband in the world, none is so trying on a wife's nerves and temper and none so bad for a woman to live with. He is a good boy, but I am bound to say he is a boudoir philosopher, even a drunkard as a wife-husband is a household pet.

If you marry a man like him he will begin you the very food and drink of life. He will drive you to any place of amusement, and he will make the first of the month, when the bills come in, the last of the month when the money is gone. There will be no pleasure or joy in life for you—nothing but penury, pinching and saving. He will always be shopping in the garbages and accuse you of being wasteful.

Don't marry a man with a Yale lock on his pocketbook. If you know not how to dress well try to pick your own clothes. And don't delude yourself into thinking that the young man who never takes his sweetheart anywhere when he is away from home is a good boy. He is not. He is a good boy born. There will be no pleasure or joy in life for you—nothing but penury, pinching and saving. He will always be shopping in the garbages and accuse you of being wasteful.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a fellow in the service who asks a girl whom he has never seen the first time to go steady with him? FLAPPER.

Answer. Certainly the man may be sincere, and if costs him nothing to be the girl's friend, then he is entitled to her company. It merely means that he found you attractive and, for further acquaintance, you loaned your charm to him. But when he has never asked her to marry him, he has no right to expect her to do so. He can go to her and say, "I am a fellow in the service."

But when the man is sincere or not will you be a goose to let a distance acquaintance who may or may not have some intentions, monopolize your time and society? The keeping company with a man who is not your equal in social position, for girls, and the girls are very much lacking in good, hard, honest sense not to break it up.

It gives to the male the pretences of an engagement. He keeps other girls away, drives away others who might mean matrimony. The girl will depend upon his pleasure for all of good time, instead of having her own. He monopolizes her company and even arrogates to himself the right to control her. He is a son of a father of a father. Not a boy of much of a family. A car or any other little things that women love. Whether it's the first time you have met him or the hundredth, just tell him to his face the girls with whom you take a walk, and if he asks you again to be a partner in his games, he will have to say it with a wedding ring. Leila Marsh, who has always been accustomed to idleness, is left without money, and she begins to feel the effects of the weather variety and because she is forced to take a position as a lady's maid to a very rich woman. In the family are Richard, Mona's husband, and Rosemary, Richard's wife, who is weak. Mona announces her marriage to Harry, and because of her husband's poverty, Harry discloses this and is sorry for the girl. He leaves her to care for herself, and covers his amazement that his friend has married a woman of means. In the meantime Mona is amuse herself with a young bachelor, and they have a conversation between them. Harry is worried about Mona, so he goes away with him. Later that night Harry is present with a handsome gift.

I DON'T know what those things happen to me. Leila

Gaily sang the words at him.

She was so deeply interested in the movie, but I see their aren't. I can't tell you what I suppose words for it.

I suppose you never stopped to think that a woman is repulsive to a woman. You wouldn't.

With a swift movement, she drops the room and has hung the curtain.

"Will you leave this room at once?" said the girl in a voice of tenor.

"Or shall I call Kua to you?"

On Barry's face there was an expression of amazement, but he did not budge. It changed slowly to one of baffled rage.

"What is it?" he asked at last.

Leila laughed amazement.

"Not only that, but if you persist in this attitude, I will tell your father."

"I told you that I couldn't afford to lose this place, and that is the reason I am here."

As he came toward her she stepped into the hall. If he attempted to follow her, she would have to call for help and Kua who was on duty just below would be sure to hear her. She was not afraid of him, but she was not without a word. The next moment she was in the sitting room, with the door locked. She was crying in Mona's arms. The situation was really funny if one had not been there.

The colossal conceit of Barry

Kinney was still there.

He could buy his way into anything, but he had to pay for it.

He had said he was repulsive to her.

Did she really mean that?

She had learned it for the first time, and she had been made to believe it.

As he came toward her she stepped into the hall. If he attempted to follow her, she would have to call for help and Kua who was on duty just below would be sure to hear her. She was not afraid of him, but she was not without a word. The next moment she was in the sitting room, with the door locked. She was crying in Mona's arms. The situation was really funny if one had not been there.

Share Actively, Now, in Alberta's Great Future!

PRESIDENT Stillman, of the Imperial Oil Co., and various other authorities, have for some time been predicting that Alberta's oil resources, when further developed, will prove up this Province as one of the world's most extensive storehouses of the precious petroleum fluid.

Geologists innumerable, today carrying on the exploration work thus suggested, and promoting geniuses supported by public money doing actual development, are bringing out these facts in unmistakable fashion.

Alberta is on the threshold of a tremendous future as a producer of petroleum, a national resource, second to none in importance in the scheme of world affairs.

BUT today Canada is paying about $120,000.00 a year for gasoline and petroleum products, and Alberta alone with billions of dollars worth of oil under the ground has contributed millions for the same purpose.

By far the greatest profit in the production of petroleum products is reaped by those who refine and market them, according to the most reliable sources.

Thus the situation at present demands an adequate refining and distributing enterprise so that the money now being paid out to foreign countries for oil shall be retained in Alberta and assist in her industrial development.

ALBERTA Refineries, Ltd., organized and installed a refining plant for the manufacturing of petroleum products from the oil of the adjoining Wainwright fields. This enterprise has been highly successful; so much so that it is unable to cope with the demand made upon the 1,000-barrel-a-day plant, and another 500-barrel unit is to be added immediately.

The gasoline product of the Alberta Refineries Ltd., is called "Pep," and is a high grade gasoline for which there is a very rapidly growing demand because of its superior qualities.

THE Refineries Distributors Ltd., whose shares are now offered to the public, was organized for the marketing of "Pep" products. In addition to their original plans, which include the building and maintaining of service stations for the distribution of "Pep," the present program calls for the erecting of a "Cracking Plant" by means of which a very important scientific process, extracts from 50 to 70% of gasoline from Wainwright Crude oil.

The details of this cracking process are given elsewhere on this page. It is sufficient to say here that by this means 3 to 5 times as much gasoline will be extracted as by the ordinary refining process now being used at the Refinery.

It will pay you to read this announcement
carefully!

"PEP" is the appropriate name given to the gasoline product of Alberta Refineries Limited, produced from the crude oil of the Wainwright field.

"PEP" has justified its name as a lively, volatile, anti-knock gasoline which motorists insist upon having. Being used at the present, "PEP" plant is inadequate for the demand.

+Why a Cracking Plant Is Necessary

Prof. Gustav Egloff of the Universal Oil Products Company Research Laboratory, in lecture before the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, spoke emphatically upon the wonderful economy and value of the "Cracking Plant" in the production of high grade anti-knock Gasoline from crude oil.

He claimed, and showed by tests and actual experience in many fields, that the Dubbs process, from 50 to 70 per cent gasoline is extracted from the crude and showed that from the Kevin Sunburst crude this percentage is always obtainable. The heavier crude from the Smack-over field is mentioned as showing "the wonderful possibilities of this process."

One of the crude oil fields of the United States is the Smack-over, Arkansas, which is still producing 180,000 barrels per day, of which 163,000 barrels (December 31, 1925), is heavy oil. This oil, of asphaltic character, is not considered satisfactory as a fuel oil due to its smoky character, high sulphur contents and other properties.

The general inquiry when a new Smack-over well was brought in "What will they do with it after they get it?"

"One leading oil man stated that Smack-over heavy oil had everything in it it should not have for a motor. Yet, despite these pessimistic statements, Smack-over heavy oil is being commercially cracked into over 50% gasoline. Smack-over heavy crude oil production of 180,000 barrels daily can be converted into 81,500 barrels of gasoline daily by the cracking process."

The results achieved from the Kevin Sunburst Fuel Oil pressages which will be accomplished by the Cracking Plant in treating the crude oil from the Wainwright field, as the qualities of the oil are almost identical.

"The Dubbs Process is so flexible that it converts any type of oil without change of principles or equipment into gasoline. Commercial plants are in operation in other countries, particularly in parts of the world, such as Japan, Borneo, Java, and Dutch West Indies, Australia, Romania, and many parts of the United States."

freight being available from this source alone at the present market prices.

Apart to erect a "Cracking Plant" at a cost of $150,000. This will have a capacity of 1,000 bbls. of crude oil and will produce from this a minimum of 500 bbls. of anti-knock gasoline every twenty-four hours. At 35 gallons to the barrel, this shows a total output of 17,500 gallons a day.

Apart from the individual profit of the cracking plant unit working at capacity, the output marketed through the service stations shows a distributing profit of $825.00 per day net. This alone will show a handsome dividend on a $1,000,000.00 capitalization in addition to the 8% per annum on the preferred shares.

Detailed figures will show this enterprise to be one of the very highest potentiality for profit. We shall be pleased to send a digest of the situation, based upon actual conditions, to the earnest investor.

In the meantime the soundness of the proposition will appeal to the investor who realizes that these pioneer enterprises in industry based directly upon natural resources, reap the rich reward.

The company was organized to market the "PEP" products of the Albert Refineries Ltd., and also to produce gasoline and other products from crude petroleum by means of a cracking plant, this plant employing the Dubbs process, a great scientific and economic advance over the ordinary refining plant, extracting from 3 to 5 times as much gasoline from the crude oil.
